Of the century was the production of M frusave Flaubert's "Salamnibo" in 1812, and I had often wondered how it was that this work had never been translated into highlish on it is with great pleasure that I see that Messas bayon & Co., English and American publishers, have & Co., English and American publishers, have just brought out a splendid translation of the famous musterpiece of the chief of the radiatic school in France. In 1858 M Plantlert went to Tunis, and thence to the runs of activate, where he remained for a long lime gropping in the mysterious remains of the proud city. The result of this journey was the treation of "Sa lammbo," a story which has been quite properly called the "Resurrection of Carthage "This grand epic is the work of an arch ologist, his torian and novelist, all combined in a great out ist. The United States is fortunate in having fewer obsolete fron clade on her hands than most nations. What to do with these narriedly mo-sters, that were superselfed by inventive genus almost before the sonorous actude attending their construction had died away, is a puzz s that the countries that own and would han operate a navy have not yet solved. The french naval authorities recently had the above the Armide' towed out to sea, where the a lowed her to drift as a target while six great men of war steamed about her, firm g at her at different tanges. DEFECTIVE VISION

It is charged upon our system of public education that it is likely to make a near-nighted nation. A century ago, the condition of near sightedness that bids fair to now involve the en tre population, was almost unknown, or a least extremely unusual. The omnipresent eye ses, corroborates statistical records and calls for the careful consideration of thinking people upon this subject. This defect of vision is by no means confined to the people of the linted States. So common has to become in Germany that an official investigation was or level re-cently. The report of this showed that in this dren of five years of ago the vision we simed dren of five years of ago the vision we simed universally perfect. In the lower schools, from fiften to twenty per cent of the pupils saffer from nearness of vision in the higher schools the projection ruckes fully and fifty per cert. To day fifty per cent. of the young men in Comertical between a and object of musicined finishers are no longer looked upon with contempt, because they firm the majority of the younger generation.

The explanation of this increasing celibrity is the to the changed standard of social necessi-tes and obligations. It costs a young couple more to live and move in their natural social sphere than it did fifty years up: Thosaun lard is false and feedel, but it is the freshion and there is no revolt against the tyraphy of us weak and access will. The false stand out starts from the family, where undue stress is placed upon the unportance of marrying for money, and celtact is cultivated by the knowledge of the ocress dand mereasing extravagance of society. ligh and low. Non an wants to maker dis on tent or vain ambition to live beyond his means If he does he perhaps carries his heavy knapsath cheerfully a few years, but at last drifts f on cheerfully a few years, but at last drifts f om sullen despair into dissipation, or takes to flight. In the comparatively new communities of the West maniage a still what it used to be lashew England it is a partnership of life and labor maintained with such cheerful economy and sacrifice on both sides that it is money in a man's pocket to take a wife but it is so no longer in New Figland

The social and schi fratic obligation of theys and girls multiplies their tastes and desires out of all proportion with their acquired power to gratify them They have less roal knowledge. more useless information than their parents had without any increase of trained power to do and get on in the world. The same when she wanted a new tress. The same reast only tempts a young woman to marry a metelerations old money bag, or a man to marry a M dusa, or his grandmether's school mate, because she has an independent moome. The false standard of social digraty the shallow a tacation, the universal passion for wealth, makes many a man so selfishly prudent that he smothers the fastices of nature by omitting to marry in the flush and thoors of her in the flush and flower of his gene on and involvement to marrise, Auything which will take for a moment the care-burdened mind from the worries and rexations incident to daily existence seems to be sought for more than ever, as though to meet a long feit want that has always existed yet never been satisfactorily met. IN GENERAL.

It is by no means certain that the changes in treets and in the dispositions of business and raffic, noted list week, have "come to stay" Portland is only in the beginning of her develop-ment sea city. I ntil quite recently we have been a town merely, and even at the present t me we have not population enough to claim n uch rank as a city. With reference to any great levelopment, such as we all hope for an look fit, we are in the first stage, with little more than the nucleus for a city organization. In the next twenty, we still in the next tenty ears, we are likely to see changes which will alter the whole character, status and appearance of the low. nace of the lowu

During the week a matt r has come to pass which may work a radical change in the for tunes of some of our main east and west streams Judge Deady has reversed his former decision, and now holds, under the superior a thoray of the supreme court, that the state has the right to author ze the budging of the Willamette ris er when and where an I under what conficions i may betermine. This will enable the to am bia street lindge company, (W. S. (hapman, et al.) to go on with its proposed bridge, and it is moves practically it o injunction, so long hing against the Morrison street bridge. It is sail, if course in a whiener, that Chauman and his nescourse in a winsper, that the man and his asso-enter terete real; desired to intended to built a bridge, and that their purpose in securing a charter was to keep offers out that they expected to be "injunct td," and were disappointed at the decision in their favor, and that now they will let he mat ter go by default. However this may be we can not say, but there are some circumstances which support the theory of the bridge should be built, one result will be in make tolumina, now among the least used "side" streets, a general thoroughfare at the expense of Jefferson street, which is now the terminus of a ferry fine and it a direct connection with the (unyou road to Washington county. This last advantage is to Washington county. This last advantage is one of situation, and cannot be usurped, but the greater advintage resulting from a bridge would make Columbia much the more import. ant horoughfare

Put if the river should be bridged at Morrison at let neurer the business center of town, re-sults still more important will follow. Direc-connection with the east side would enable connection with the east side would enable Mirnison to outstrip its advanting rival Wish ngton, particularly if the lorse car line, which send to be in prospect, is laid in Allorm of the novantages lost by the rise of Wishing ton as a thoroughfare would be regulard and Morrison would become at once the most populous east and west thoroughfare. If the bright is fulfit at Morrison street, it will be impossible ractically to put in another at Wiehington, for there would be great outery if it were proposed to further obstruct the river. Here is a great opportunity for Morrison street, so important it it its property holiers could well affind to give outlight an amount of money sufficient to give sutright and build the bridge

The rid contest between up town and down lown with no means ended. It depen is largely near what effect i ridging the river will have It is contended in one hand that no shipping at it contended in one hand that no shipping will go above a bridge, and on the other thran bridge will make no particular difference and be no dendvantage to the south one. But it de-pends to a greater extent upon the lo atom of the malroad depot. Ferbaps we shall never have such a neglectern after as the great A nim depat of the beam, but some sort of radical center we must have, and it will in their a great deal if it be not he south end or the north end. There are admirable suce at both et la both own if its rulroad corporations, so it is an even tess which will be chosen. We can only wut

But it is interesting to speculate. If the get eral depit should be at (out) lake, then I ffn, Sixth and Seventh streets are likely to grow greath in but mess and vature. They wall form the natural north and south connection between the dept in it to center of the city and will asure much of the Irafic which now flows through First and Front streets If, on the other band, the radroad depot be fixed at the flats above the city, then business will swing round that way, the guiches will be filled up and what is now peasure drive will become the busiest quarter of the city. But we shall have to wait and see

In the people realize that in spite of hard to be proposed to the first of spice of hard for Portland is growing, filing up within the lift limits, spreading on all sides, gaining new 105 olation, and increasing the variety and scope (fits instenses). It is a fact. A man may drive though they miles of streets within the city

PRESIDENT MILLER RESIGNS

PHILOMATH, April 22, 1859

To the Editor of the Oregonian

President 6 M. Miller, having received the nomination of representative to congress on the prohibition ticket, described to engage in the canvass of the state. In order to avoid all dissatisfaction, the executive committee thought best that he should either not engage in the canvass or present his resignation to take effect M-712th President Miller at once tendered his resignation. After accepting it, the committee pa.sed the following resolution by a unanimous vote. Resulted that the executive committee of finion the college hereby extend to President Miller their hearty thanks for his earnest efforts to advance the interests of the college during the twenty-one months he has been in Philomath, and would express their appreciation of his scholarly and efficient college worker, and fully qualified to sollege president.

Prof. Miller will enter the campaign about they first, after which date Mrs. A. S. C. Miller, his wife, will take up his work in the school-ior in fer the remainder of the year, receiv in the same salary. As first Miller is a thorou in teacher, having taught saveral terms in Aval is college, Mo. and often taken charge of his chases during his absentate the work of the co-lege will not be impured by the change.

THE CASCADES FIGHT

Ourrection Corrected—Bome Fostical Inacourances, for which the Author will Claim a Peculiar License.

The Indian war veterans, nublicly asputing the accuracy of "certain statements which have lifely appeared to prant" concerning the Concades fight, say that Capt. Pawd's company were fu nished with arms, amount ion and stores by the quartermaster and commissary at

As the veterans seem to be seeding for shite accuracy, let me sugges that me (aptum) I two figured in the cascades light, but captain Powell led for in Portland to the scene of herbitities a party of thing three volunteers, who set out as soon as they could get fire time. In my account of the in atter I was indeed mistaken in saying that they procured all their times in Vancouver, for a close section of the either stowe that clout twenty of the men procured weighous from private parties in Portland before sub-triving, chily three men being supplied in Vancouver The publications of that date say accting if what the thinteen guiss were bud, hence my main it coincission that they came from the givernine of mental.

Thus imprepared to learn from the sterius that one of their order being in March 1855, the facility of quartermaster of the Wichington territory forces at Vancouver, is bithetic units this did not be given the time of M. B. Millard in such or a preprinter. territory forces at Vancouver, as inthe to under juited authorities have given the mans of M. B. Hillard as such quartermater. Of our as the facts in question are of very small map intance, for it really makes no difference whe serior when the volonteers got their guest to emit fact, that I wanted to set furth was that owing to the perversences of critian that the hand owing to the perversences of critian that got territorial officially, the near wase in all piled with times at Parling I, but were delayed in my fours and indeed failed to get to the tascaces in time to be of substantial service. As to other inaccuracies pointed out by the vetting, I have no more to say than that they did not originate with mit, their aution, no doubt will externate them by plealing tear of iccural high license.
